

Flight School starts in the morning with physical training. Only the strongest ants can survive the obstacle course.

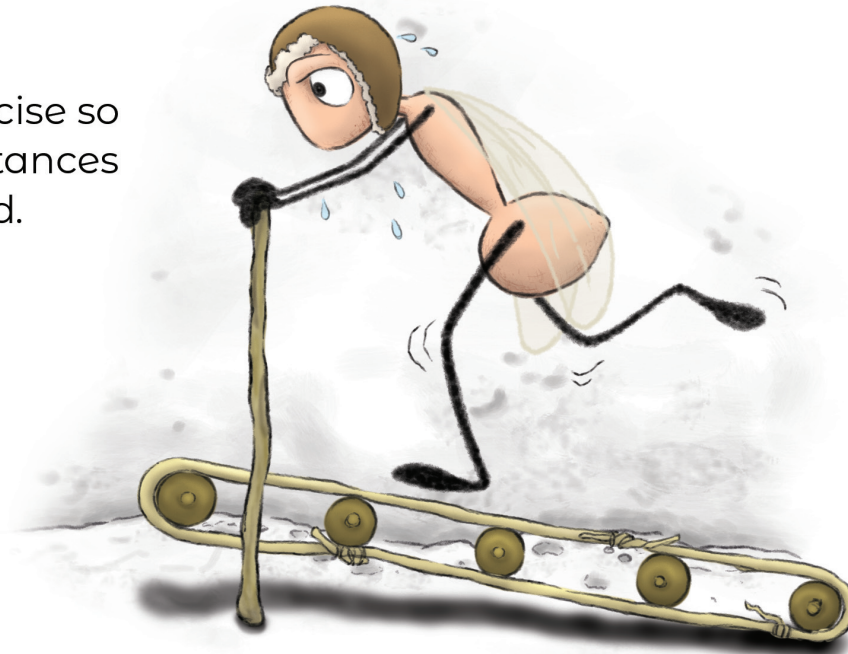

They must make their legs stronger and faster for takeoffs and landings.

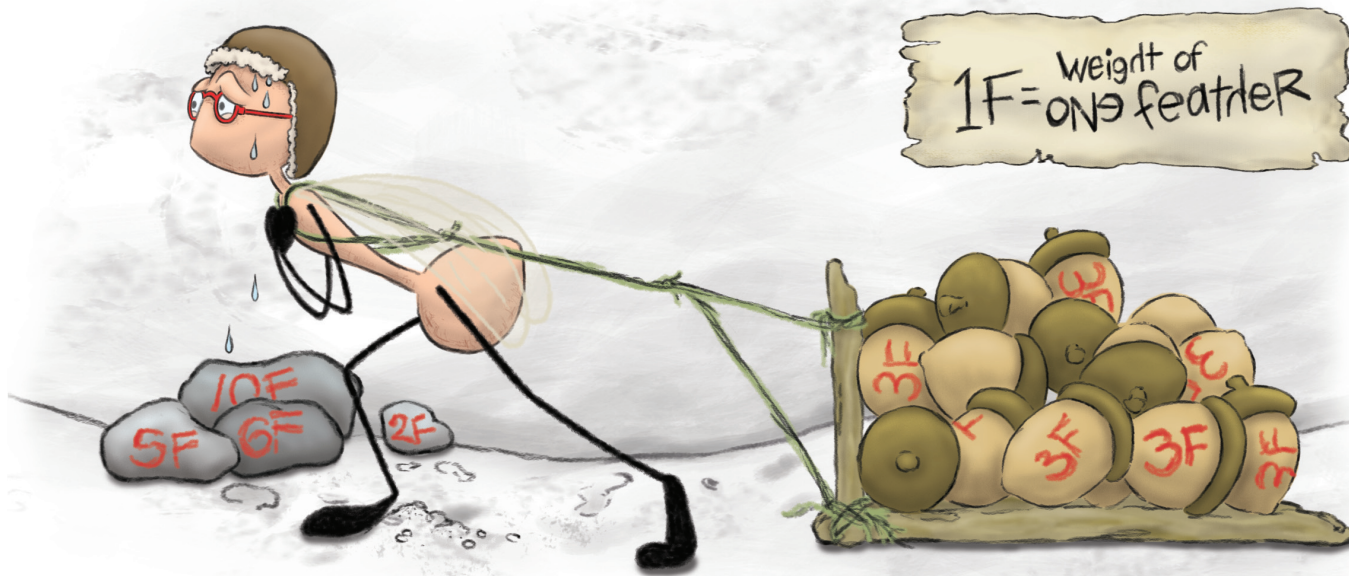

They must work on wing strength so they can make sharp turns.

The Flyers must exercise so they can fly long distances and not get tired.

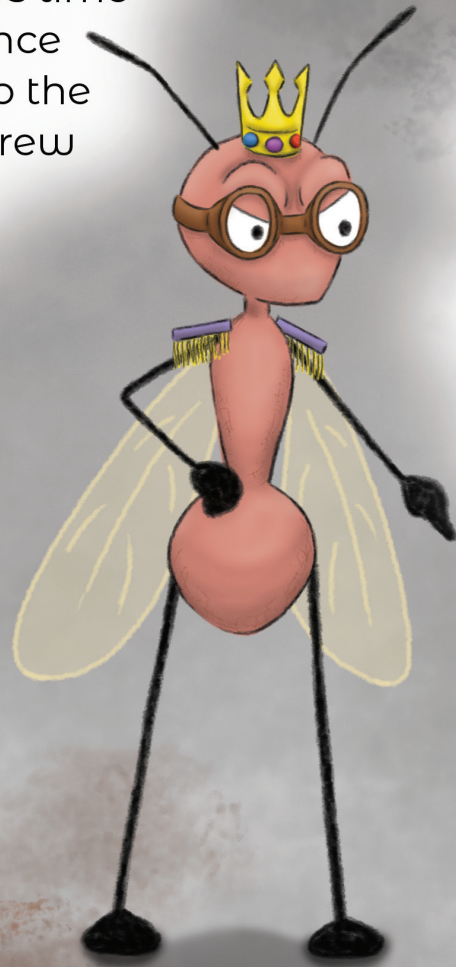

And finally there is speed training.
Only the fastest Flyers make the Corps.

Prince Antrew yells at the Flyers. "Come on, you Flyers! Shape up!
You'll never make the Corps with that effort! You need to work harder!
Harder! Harder! Harder!"

After many moons, it's time for flight practice. Prince Antrew leads them to the swing set. Prince Antrew gives the orders.

“Ok Flyer Abe, you’re first. Take off from under the slide, fly around all the monkey bars, and come right back here. And you better not mess up!”